Welcome. If you are here you are probably here by mistake. Sorry about that. If not you are probably here to learn more about me. Well, if that is the case, you are in the right place. Here you will find information about me, my hobbies and interest.

A little about me, I live in Nashville, TN. Been here for over a decade. Great place to live, a real drinking town with a music problem. I work in the live video production industry for a company named AP Live as the Technical Director. You can find more on that in my blog.

This page is a place for me to share my passions, life and what I have learned, mostly the hard way and hopefully you will not have to learn it that way.

Thank you for visiting, hope you enjoy your stay.
